Love is in the air: Jane Austen heads to PBS with 'Sanditon'

By Francis Babin
TV Media

Next year marks the 20th anniversary of one of the most groundbreaking achievements in cinema history. The first chapter in J.R.R. Tolkien's epic Middle-Earth trilogy, "The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring," was released in late 2001 to critical and commercial acclaim. After decades of failed big-screen adaptions, the fantasy series was eventually brought to life by Peter Jackson ("They Shall Not Grow Old," 2018) and forever changed the Hollywood landscape.

But there are many works of Tolkien that have never received the Hollywood treatment, works that are arguably just as important and relevant as the Lord of the Rings series. There are many authors in this same boat, and one of the most notable is Jane Austen. "Pride and Prejudice" has been recreated hundreds of times for television, the big screen and the stage (the 1995 BBC production has yet to be topped, in my opinion). "Emma," "Sense and Sensibility," "Mansfield Park," "Persuasion" — all of these wonderful novels have been adapted in some form for global audiences. But Austen's "Sanditon" has been largely ignored by the film and television industries.

Admittedly, an unfinished book, even by one of the most popular writers in history, doesn't seem like an obvious choice for a TV adaptation. But on Sunday, Jan. 12, PBS will take you back to the Regency era and introduce you to some wonderfully colorful characters as "Sanditon" comes to life on PBS as part of its "Masterpiece" program.

After the great success of last year's "Les Misérables," legendary scribe Andrew Davies has once again set his sights on a lofty work from one of the greatest and most influential authors of all time. When Austen came down with a mysterious illness in 1817, she decided to take her mind off her failing health and focus her attention on something lighthearted and cheery: she began work on "Sanditon." Unfortunately, she never finished her witty novel and died only months after starting.

In this "Masterpiece" adaptation, the lively, impulsive and unconventional Charlotte Heywood (Rose Williams, "Reign") makes her way from her rural home of Willingden to the coastal fishing village of Sanditon. Thanks to a serendipitous mishap, the ambitious Tom Parker (Kris Marshall, "Death in Paradise") makes the acquaintance of the respectable Heywood family and invites their eldest daughter, Charlotte, for an extended stay at Sanditon. There, she attempts to reinvent herself as she is exposed to a world of intrigue, dalliances, high society and colorful characters, like the mysteriously charming and brooding Sidney Parker (Theo James, "Divergent," 2014), Tom's brother. Naturally, sparks fly between the adventure-seeking Charlotte and dapper-yet-unpredictable Sidney, and like all great romantic stories, many obstacles stand in the way of their relationship.

Over the course of the eight-episode limited series, we are introduced to a bevy of curious and unpredictable characters that Charlotte could never imagine meeting back home. As Tom, a kind family man, works towards his dream of transforming the sleepy seaside village into something bigger and better, the townspeople do not always cooperate. He hopes to turn the village into a fashionable health resort and partners with the wealthy Lady Denham (Anne Reid, "The Aeronauts," 2019), a twice-widowed woman who lives with her ward, Clara Brereton (Lily Saccfsky, "Summer of Rockets").

While promoting the series last year, writer Davies discussed what brought him to the project but also what viewers could expect: "Jane Austen managed to write only a fragment of her last novel before she died — but what a fragment. 'Sanditon' tells the story of the transformation of a sleepy fishing village into a fashionable seaside resort, with a spirited young heroine, a couple of entrepreneurial brothers, some dodgy financial dealings, a West Indian heiress and quite a bit of nude bathing. It's been a privilege and a thrill for me to develop "Sanditon" into a TV drama for a modern audience."

On the surface, the period piece might seem like your typical costume drama, but there is much more to it. As The Guardian put it, the partially completed novel is a strange fiction about encroaching modernity in the industrial age and, more specifically, a seaside resort on the Sussex coast. Readers of "Sanditon" can attest that it is indeed a strange and compelling bit of fiction worth adapting into a bold and lavish series.

With that said, the adaptation process has not been an easy one. ITV, the British network that originally aired the series last fall, decided to use the unfinished source material as the basis of only the premiere episode. Davies used Austen's incomplete work as a launching pad for the rest of the episodes.

As with all adaptions, some fans of the source material will not be happy, and while "Sanditon" is already a hit overseas, it's also a source of great controversy and debate. Tune in to the period piece to find out why when "Sanditon" premieres Sunday, Jan. 12, on PBS.

Saturday Best Bets

The Pioneer Woman

FOOD 10:00 a.m.

Host Ree Drummond spends this new episode focusing on her father-in-law, Chuck. With the help of the family, Ree tends to the cattle in order to lessen Chuck's load before treating him to a dinner of his favorites.

The Princess Bride

AMC 1:30 p.m.

A not-so-typical fairy tale comes to life for a sick boy whose grandfather reads to him in this hit movie based on the novel of the same name. A pirate (Cary Elwes) rushes to rescue his long lost love (Robin Wright) from the clutches of an evil prince.

Wendi McLendon-Covey stars in "The Goldbergs"

AFC Divisional

3 13 8:00 p.m.

Find out who is going to the Superbowl this year as one team is decided in this NFC Championship game. It's been a tight race between the New Orleans Saints, the San Francisco 49ers, the Green Bay Packers and the Seattle Seahawks, but it's anyone's game.

The Goldbergs

9 9:00 p.m.

Things don't go as planned when Barry (Troy Gentile) decides to rush a fraternity in this rebroadcast. Meanwhile, Beverly (Wendi McLendon-Covey) takes on more hobbies, and Murray (Jeff Garlin) watches more TV as a way of coping with being empty nesters.

Gemini Man

A former killer for the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA), aging former marine scout sniper Henry Brogan (Smith) retires after a botched assassination and struggles to adjust to his new life. When he finds out that his former colleagues are being murdered, Brogan realizes he was deceived by his corrupt former boss, Janet Lassiter (Emond), and GEMINI director Clay Varris (Owen). When the organization that he once killed for attempts to neutralize the retired marksman, Brogan and fellow agent Danny Zakarweski (Winstead) face off against a dangerous GEMINI asset.
Director: Ang Lee. Stars: Will Smith, Mary Elizabeth Winstead, Clive Owen, Benedict Wong, Linda Emond. 2019. 117 mins. Action.

The Death and Life of John F. Donovan

When heartthrob film and television star John F. Donovan (Harington) dies suddenly after a slew of scandals, few are more distressed than 11-year-old Rupert Turner (Tremblay). He's been writing fan letters to the star since the age of six, and the now adult Turner (Schnetzer), an actor himself, publishes his collection of letters with the closeted star. In an interview with Audrey Newhouse (Newton), Turner expresses a willingness to turn the tragedy of his lifelong confidante's passing into a personal exercise of staying true to one's self.
Director: Xavier Dolan. Stars: Kit Harington, Jacob Tremblay, Thandie Newton, Ben Schnetzer. 2019. 123 mins. Drama.

The Turkey Bowl

Though he has settled nicely into a respectable life in the city, Patrick Hodges (Hansen), a former high school quarterback, is lured back to his rural Midwestern hometown for the Thanksgiving holiday. His childhood friends get him there under the false pretense that his best friend, Mitchell (Jones), has died. The purpose of this forced Thanksgiving reunion is to coerce Hodges into finishing the legendary Turkey Bowl, a football game famously snowed out 15 years earlier. The old friends face off once again against their bitter crosstown rivals, The Badgers.
Director: Greg Coolidge. Stars: Alan Ritchson, Matt Jones, Ryan Hansen. 2019. 120 mins. Comedy.

Q&A
Hollywood

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Will "Outlander" be coming back soon? If so, can you tell me when?

A: The whole concept of time is a little more flexible for "Outlander" fans, but you can count on this: Season 5 of the time-traveling historical romance series will premiere on Sunday, Feb. 16.

And the good news doesn't stop there. Starz has leapt into the future itself by already renewing the show for a sixth season as well — in fact, it picked up the fifth and sixth seasons before Season 4 even debuted, such is the faith it has in this one.

Of course, that's not new. The cable channel did the same thing a few years ago, issuing a renewal for the third and fourth seasons simultaneously.

And at the moment, there's no reason for Starz to not continue this for quite a while. The ratings remain strong for the series (they dropped a bit in Season 4, but the show still averages more than a million viewers per episode), and there's plenty more source material to draw from.

The series is based on novels written by Diana Gabaldon, with each season covering one novel — the upcoming season will (mostly) cover the fifth book, titled "The Fiery Cross." There are three more books already done, and more still to come — Gabaldon is nearly done work on the ninth and shows no signs of slowing down.

I say the new season "mostly" covers the fifth book, because some of the stars have hinted it will reach ahead a bit into the sixth.

"I think we're able to say we're bringing in certain elements of the next book," series lead Caitriona Balfe said in an interview with "Entertainment Tonight." "I'm not sure how much I'm allowed to say about that. Some elements, yes."

Q: Was that Parker Posey in "Blade: Trinity"? It looked like her, but she seems like an odd fit.

A: Yes, that is Parker Posey playing the villainous vampire Danica in 2004's "Blade: Trinity," and you're not alone in thinking she was a strange choice for the role. She thought so, too.

Posey described being pressured by her agent to give it a try, despite being unhappy with the trend toward comic book and fantasy movies that was happening at the time. But she settled on a pretty positive outlook: "Hey, just because it's not my bag doesn't mean it's not in my makeup bag."

That clever quip comes straight from her memoir, "You're on an Airplane" (she explains the title in the book), in which she devotes a whole chapter to her surreal "Blade" experience, not because it was a significant moment in her career but because, as you say, it was an odd one.

It's not that she was too big for the part of a supporting villain in a sequel film — if anything, it's the opposite. This was a big-budget action movie, part of a huge franchise, and she was an indie-movie darling known for quirky, quiet, comedic roles.

Her comment about the makeup bag wasn't just a metaphor, though. "I was skeptical about 'Blade: Trinity' but when I got my fangs, I got more into it."

That said, she offered some proof on set that she wasn't a natural choice for this sort of movie. At the end of the chapter, she shares a sadly relatable anecdote about being unable to stop making pew-pew-pew noises with her mouth while firing a gun in an action scene.

Q: Is it true they're making another adaptation of "Emma"? The real question I have is, why?

A: You can be forgiven for feeling exhausted by the idea of yet another Jane Austen movie. Film and TV producers have adapted her novels more than 75 times so far, and even other authors are now doing adaptations, adding things like murders ("Death Comes to Pemberley" by P.D. James) and zombies ("Pride and Prejudice and Zombies" by Seth Grahame-Smith).

But this new "Emma" might have fresh angle that actually makes sense: It'll be a costume drama with a focus on the costumes.

The adaptation, due out next year, is being directed by Autumn de Wilde, a hugely successful fashion photographer who's also done campaign videos for Prada and stylish music videos for pop stars.

The British edition of fashion magazine Vogue could hardly contain itself when announcing the news. "Can you imagine what de Wilde could do with the early 19th century's satin gowns, transparent muslins and lace parasols?" wrote the magazine's film correspondent, Hayley Maitland.

The film boasts a pretty solid cast of up-and-comers as well. Anya Taylor-Joy landed the title role, having proven herself in period pieces (and book adaptations) with her lead in the 2017 BBC/PBS miniseries "The Miniaturist." The all-important love interest, Mr. Knightley, is played by musician and actor Johnny Flynn, who's on a bit of a classics run lately, having appeared in TV adaptations of "Les Miserables" and "Vanity Fair" in 2018.

Undercover Boss

3 13 8:00 p.m.

Stacy Anderson, president of Anytime Fitness, is featured in this new episode. Anderson goes undercover in disguise to her own gyms, ensuring they are in good shape. Then, a cleaning-fanatic gym manager puts her through an intense workout.

Schooled

9 8:30 p.m.

When her dreams of rock stardom didn't work out, Laney Lewis (AJ Michalka) took a job teaching music at her old high school in this "Goldbergs" spinoff. Despite their foibles, she and her fellow teachers realize they're heroes to their students.

Stacy Anderson of Anytime Fitness is featured in "Undercover Boss"

Nancy Drew

18 9:00 p.m.

When Nancy (Kennedy McMann) and the crew learn that a cold case and the poison that killed Tiffany Hudson (Sinead Curry) are linked, they risk their lives to track down the vicious killer. Scott Wolf, Leah Lewis and Maddison Jaizani also star.

Almost Family

46 9:00 p.m.

Nate (Michael Urie) helps Julia (Brittany Snow) find more information on her mother in this new episode. Meanwhile, Edie (Megalyn Echikunwoke) realizes Tim (Mo McRae) may have been behind Chad (Daniel Cosgrove) approving her half-brother's pro bono case.
